MONTHLY PERFORMANCE REVIEW

The month of January looks very much like the previous months: a continued rise in equity markets, particularly in the US, a declining dollar and a gradual rise in interest rates. However, we should also note the steady rise in implied volatility for several months now, especially in US stocks, as well as the record negative carry of futures contracts on the SP500. All this points to a very leveraged market with increasing risk of a technical correction.

During the month of January, the ERAAM Premia I share appreciated by +1.04% (+1.00% for the A share) and reached a new high.

Currencies: +0.8%

The "Trend" and "Value" strategies benefited from the decline of the dollar against all currencies. Currency Risk Premia were the month's best performers.

Equities: +0.8%

All equity Risk Premia, with the exception of "Volatility", contributed positively to the fund's performance during the month. "Quality" on US equities and "Value" in Europe were the two best performers (respectively +0.3% and +0.2%). Our investments in Research and Development have started to pay off.

Rates: -0.1%

The trend tracking strategies, "Short Rates Trend" and "Long Rates Trend", are slightly sellers and therefore benefit from the steady rise in rates. Carrying strategies are penalized by flattening of the US yield curve.
